Kentucky doesn't please these extremes; her course has been cold, calculating and selfish. She only remains in the Union, say the Abolitionists, because it's her interest; and the Secesh are very well satisfied that this State has not been prompted by any sentiment of chivalry; that she has shown no feeling for any side but her own.

There is some truth in this estimate. This State acted deliberately, and did not fall into a passion and play the fool generally. mote it be. She has maintained that rational estimate of the Union which she derived from her fathers, and has not abandoned the lessons of wisdom in the past for a clamor raised by shallow-pated, ambitious demagogues, and repeated by ignorant cross roads politicians So far as this may be a prejudice, it has operated on that is not altogether cold and selfish.

We have no neighbors that we think more and future welfare of Kentucky. or will influence a wise statesman. Washington warned his countrymen against being the slaves of their fondness or animosity toward other nations. Let them say that our policy is calculating, cold and selfish; it is wise; and those who are to come after us will thank this generation that would not yield to passion and the follies of the hour. We say it is not the interest of this State to allow this Union to be broken up in any event whatever. It is not worth while to tell us what any party meditates. Instead of finding her navy superior, she has suddenly found out that her ships are no more dangerous than so many cockleshells. She is impressed with the wholesome truth that we could have plucked her venerable nose and kicked her respectable person with impunity. Nothing in this sublunary world is more ridiculously mortifying than a sudden descent from dignity. Let the most gracefully impressive statesman of the world slip up on a row of sleety steps, and so slide down to the bottom with what "Charcoal Sketches" calls a series of "hysts," and his dignity has all evaporated. No man can look indifferently in such affliction. His whole manner betrays it; and it is true as preaching the guns of the Merrrimae and Monitor knocked old Eng. land off her pins. GEN PRENTISS MAKES A SPERCH. -- It Was pleasantly told of Gen. Prentiss, when moving through Northern Missouri last fall, that he would march all day and address the people at the cross roads every evening. As he always makes a good speech, it was not so bad for the people after all But they are telling at Savannah and Pittsburg of a later, and his latest speech at Grand Junction, Mississippi, where he was taken a prisoner from field of Sunday. A correspondent tells the tale for us. He says Gen. Prentiss was confined in a large hall and excited great curiosity among the populace. He bore their staring with great good humor, but when they began to ask questions he told them he would make them a speech if the commandant would allow. That officer on being consulted gave his consent and his countenance by dropping in himself, when Gen. Ben. lifted up his voice and went it on a rousing Union speech. He told them of the Government that was, of its beneficence and mildness, of its power, and the position it had won before the world, and of the hopelessness of their struggle with it. And then he talked pathetically of the dear old flag and the times gone by when it floated over an united land, and at this point his elder listners broke down and tearfully heard him through. The story is told on the authority of twelve men of the aged persuasion who have come into Gen. Halleck's lines and professed their Unionism, revived by Gen. Prentiss' speech, and desire to take the cath of allegiance. This is the story that comes to

NEW INVENTION FOR IRON VESSELS .- We have truly returned to the age of iron, and a great field for invention has been opened the intelligent mechanics of America. We were yesterday shown a new model, made of the lightest kind of tin, of a proposed gunboat, to be constructed of corrugated iron on an angle form. The inventor going vessels to the heavy plated frigates and gunboats now in progress of construc-tion, both here and in Europe. The elasficity of corrugated iron will cause a rebound when struck by a ball, which, besides, could not hit the vessel except at an angle. The draught of such gunboats will also be much les : as four sheets of this king of iron are equal in strength and resistance to seven sheets of solid plate iron. Gun-boats or ships built of corrugated iron will, therefore, draw much less water, and will be better adapted to take the place of wooden vessels on the high seas. Collins says the invention can be applied to merchant vessels as well as to ships-of-war, and as the idea appears to be an excellent one-supplying the great desideratum of a vessel combining immense powers of resistance with a light draught of water—it is to matter in hand, and have the plans of Mr. Collins properly examined.—N. Y. Herald.

Business .- The public, and the Kentucky public especially, will read the following letter from George N. Sanders with some interest: "Louisville, Kr., 31 June, 1861. "My Dear Sir: The gun that I spoke to you about will, I think, prove very successful. It is made of wrought iron, fivepounder, weighing only 320 pounds; six-pounder will weigh 350 pounds; 12 pounder 700; 26-pounder 1400; warranted to stand the severest test. The five-pound gun now here will shoot point blank one mile and a half; by erecting the muzzle will carry three miles. The 12 and 24-pounder, it is expected, will carry four or five miles. This is

"I have engaged the inventor and his two boys to go this week to Nashville to submit to any test that Gen. Anderson may think proper to make. I have assured them that if the tests should prove satisfactory, that Tennnessee will make a liberal contract with them. So well satisfied am I, that I have agreed to pay their expenses. The gun will be shipped to-day if possible. It is not possible to make any experimental shots here: indeed, it is possible that we may not be able to send the gun by rail at all, and may have to wagon it through.

"Respectfully, GEORGE N. SANDERS who was making rebel guns? Nashville Union

A DESERTER'S STORY .- Among the de serters who have reached the flotilla is Samuel Sampson, formerly gunner's mate on board the Confederate gunboat General Polk He has a hard story to relate, and I never listened to so painful a narrative as he told me on board the gunboat Benton a day or two since. For three months the poor fellow was kept in irons, and exposed to the changes of weather by being bound to the deck of the General Polk. A rebel naval officer had preferred charges against him specifying certain acts of mutiny, disobedience to orders, etc. Com. Hollins convened a court martial, but the court never sat, and Sampson has lain in chains. A few nights ago, assisted by one of his fellow marines, he cast the chains away, and then jumped overboard and swam ashore. He reached the Arkansas side in safety, and the next morning hailed one of the transports, by which he was taken aboard the Benton where he is now. If anything were needed to corroborate his narrative, it is a copy of the charges and specifications, and of the order calling a court martial, signed by Hollins' own autograph. A Dr. Banks, residing in Savannah, Ga., having just returned from a tour to Rich-mond, our brave Colonel Armstrong went to inquire from him what the news was. "Oh, Colonel," said he, "we are whipped on all sides; everything looks dark and gloomy for us. McCulloch and Price are killed, Columbus and Manassas are evacuated, and hell is to pay everywhere!"

TANTALIZING SILENCE REGARDING "NO. 10." Rebel editors are very slow to believe that Island No. 10, with all its garrison and munitions of war, has surrendered to the Union forces. The rebel Cabinet preserves a profound silence on the subject, which fairly agonizes the "knights of the quill" in Secessia, and they are loudly calling out for official information regarding it. John P. Bedding and S. P. Ray, from ST. Louis, April 23. Arkansas, reported themselves at the Provost Marshal's office as from rebel territory, and desired to take the cath of allegiance. When the war broke out they ran a steamboat on the Washits river, and as they could not dispose of their property, they contin-ued in business. Recently their boat took fire and was consumed. The only tie that bound them to rebeldom being thus destroyed they at once determined to make their way am, with very great respect, very truly to the loyal States.

They represent the people of Arkansas as entirely ignorant of the successive Union victories and the disastrous defeats of the Gens. Price and Van Dorn have both gone from Arkansas with their forces.

David Powell, formerly a resident of this city, also reported himself to the Provost Marshal as a returned and repentant rebel. He was a member of Capt. Kelly's company, which went to Jefferson city one year ago, to defend the powder belonging to the State. Kelley's company afterwards joined Price's army, but Powell went into the rebel service reluctantly. He once attempted to escape, was caught, tried by a courtmartial, and condemned to be shot. Soon afterwards occurred the battle of Wilson's Creek, when he was released from guard, and placed in the front ranks. The sentence against him was suspended and he managed to escape.

Powell says there are hundreds of men in Price's army who would be glad to escape and take the oath of allegiance

WHOLESOME ADVICE TO FOREIGN POWERS The Paris correspondent of the London Post, under date of April 6, writes as fol-

I observe that a certain amount of error is in circulation concerning the views of England and France on Mexican affairs. It is quite true that her Majesty's Government does not desire to insist on such hard terms with the Mexicans as France would impose and Spain would countenance. Therefore, England leaves the responsibility of prosecuting those demands in the hands of France and Spain. France and Spain may desire to throw difficulties in the way of the Mexican Government with a view of erecting a monarchy or some other arrangement, and under such circumstances designedly prolong hostilities. It would, perhaps, be a dangerous game for any European Government or nation to attempt to plant a dynasty on any part of the continent of America; for when the quarrel between North and South is settled, all Americans would unite to hunt out the strangers of the Old World from the Republican soil, which might end in a war with countries of the Old World.

They fear his constantly growing popularity, and cautiously admit to each other that if he should gain one or two splendid and decisive victories their hope of carrying out their Presidential programme will be effec-tually crushed. While fiercely shouting "On to Richmond," these men are really chagrined at the rapid progress of the Union arms and the restoration of federal authority. They are simply playing their game in reference to the next Presidency. All their ideas of patriotism are reduced to mere partisan success. For a day or two past they have been industriously circulaing a rumor that the President is much alarmed at the overwhelming popularity of General McClellan, and fears his rivalry for a nomination to the Presidency in 1864. In this way they are sedulously striving to beget an antagonism between the friends of the President and those of the Gen-

The rebel army is reported as being greatly demoralized by the recent Union rictories, the news of which the rebel anthorities in vain endeavor to suppress. The rebels quarted in Podicksville last week moved off towards Gordonsville, and it is believed that they are encamped but a short distance from that place.

Gunboat Port Royal in Commission!

Washington, April 26.—The Navy Da-partment has received dispatches from Commodore Foote, enclosing a report from steam-er-commanding Gwin, dated 14th inst., in which he says the Tyler and Lexington conveyed two transports containing 2,000 troops, infantry and cavalry, under command of Gen. Sherman, to Chickasaw, when they disembasked and proceeded rapidly to Bear creek bridge, at the crossing of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, for the purpose of destroying it, and as much of the trestle work as they could find. The bridge, consisting of two spans, of 110 feet each, was completely distroyed, that is, the superstructure, tegether with some 500 feet of trestle work, and half a mile of tile graplo

CAMP, NEAR SPARTA, VA, April 25. Several deserters and refugees corroborate previous reports that Jackson, after flying rom our advancing column on Friday last, oushed forward to a point one mile north of Harrisonburg, where a turnpike branches to the left, passing Moganseytown on the south fork of the Shenandoah, and the Blue Ridge, and running thence to Gordonsville. Jack-son's wagon train had been pushed toward Staunton, but hearing that town was in the possession of the Union troops, he remanded it to Harrisburg. At an early heur Sunday morning, Jackson, with his whole force and train, took the Gordonsville pike, and at latest accounts had reached Morgansey-

On Saturday night a squadron of the 1st Vermont cavalry, while scouting the Suray road, beyond Marsamettan Mountain, fell in with a body of the enemy's cavalry. A skirmish ensued, resulting in the capture of 7 of the enemy and 11 of the horses. None of our men were hurt. One, a lieutenant, had his horse shot under him. Jackson's retreat from this valley had eneficial effect on the volunteers and drafted men from Rockingham and the surrounding counties. A Union hostage, who escaped from Jackson on Saturday morning, reports his force at the time six miles east of Harrison burg, which place he left in a perfect panic Union hostages taken from Winchester and the Valley, many of whom are sixty years old and upward, sick and crippled, were barbarously compelled to march on foot behind the train, up hill and down, through mud and creeks, and in some cases fell down from sheer exhaustion. This act has caused great indignation in our army, and loud cries are made for retaliation upon prominent Secessionists here. FORTRESS MONROE, April 25 -A flag of ruce to-day returned with the schooner Mississippi, which brought down from Norfolk yesterday seventeen Federal prisoners wounded at the battle of South Mills. The Union troops consisted of five regiments, the 21st Massachusetts, 51st Pennsylvania, 96th New York, and 60th New Hampshire, under command of General Reno, numbering 500 or 600 men. They landed below Elizabeth City and marched up to the canal without opposition. The object of the move-ment was to break up the locks. The en-gagement took place during the afternoon, and the rebels were driven from the field. Late in the evening it was known that the rebels were receiving reinforcements. Gen. eral Keno retired during the night. No last quoted. transportation having been provided for the wounded, the men were left in a temporary ospital and Asst. Surgeon Warren, of the 21st Massachusetts was detailed to remain with them. Several others who were only slightly wounded left with the other troops. Among the latter was Col. Hawkins, wounded in the left breast or shoulder. The wounded men on their arrival here were taken to the general hospital and properly cared for. They complain that while they were in the hands of the enemy, they did not have enough to eat, but were otherwise properly taken care of. CAIRO, April 26 .- Special to the Missouri Democrat.—Passengers who reached here this morning, on the steamer N. W. CHICAGO, April 26 - Special to Journal .-A reconnoisance in force made toward Co-rinth on Thursday, when nine miles out, surprised a rebel camp and took 27 prisoners, destroyed the camp equipage and advanced to Pea Ridge, within 6 miles of Corinth, where they remained from 11 A. lo, to be an intelligent and truthful gen tleman, I place the utmost confidence in his statements. He assures me that, notwithstanding th riolence of the rebel leaders in Memphis, and the unanimity that is generally supposed to prevail among the people of that city in favor of the Secession movement, there nevertheless is, or was when he left, a strong under-current of Union feeling. He mentioned several prominent persons who are there regarded with suspicion, and among them the president of one of the railroads the design from the city. It is his helicitates leading from the city. It is his belief that the National troops will meet with a differ-ent reception in Memphis, strange as it may appear, than they did in Nashville. I must say that I am generally very skep-tical about such stories, and think, as Col. Ford once said of the loyalty of Western Virginia, "Gentlemen, don't talk to me about the Unionism of that section—I tell you there aint any there." Still, I know my friend to be honest, and am sure he would not tell me anything he was not well convinced was

One thing I must not forget to state. You are aware, no doubt, that the Memphis Av alanche, formerly the most foul-mouthed and abusive journal in secession, surpassing in violence even the Richmond Examiner and Charleston Mercury, although without a tithe of the ability of either of these, has, for some time past, been quite conservative, by contrast, and recently published an article speaking highly of the good behavior of our troops in Nashville, while the staid old Appeal is now the organ of the fire-eaters. This metamorphosis of the Avalanche is thus explained:

Some time last summer, Jeptha Fowlkes, Esq , well known throughout the country as a financier, and former President of the Southern Pacific railroad, made his way to Washington City, where it is alleged he was closeted with the President. A few months after his return, to the surprise of every-body, he purchased the Avalanche, and there are not found wanting ill-natured persons who pretend to see some connection between these two events in Mr. Fowlkes' life. Certain it is that the manners and morals of the paper gradually improved, and although it has continued to render an apparently hearty support to the bogus "Confederacy," it is believed by many that, on the approach of our army, it will throw off all disguise and give the cause of the Union the full benefit of its influence. The truth or falsity of these stories, however, will soon be manifest, as the occupa-tion of Memphis by our forces cannot be very far distant.

A DISTINGUISHED PRISCHER .- General C. B. Courad, of Gilmer county, Va., has been brought to Wheeling as a prisoner of war. The Intelligencer says:

Mr. Conrad was a member of the Richmond Convention which passed the ordinance of secession, and stood side by side with the best of the Union men of Northwestern Virginia, refusing at all times to vote for the ordinance. He returned home, however, and Governor Letcher made him a Brigadier General. That seems to have been a fatal bait, and ever since he has been recognized as a secessionist. A week or so ago he come to the Federal officers at Sutton, in Braxton county, and gave himself up, and Major Darr had him brought self up, and Major Darr had him brought here, that his case might be investigated.
